Pat began playing the guitar at the age of 13 under Joseph Cassano. His earliest musical influence was his father, Philip, an accomplished woodwind player and jazz musician. Andrés Segovia
New York City
Recognized as one of America’s most brilliant guitarists, WILLIAM KANENGISER has developed a unique repertoire for his instrument, ranging from dazzling arrangements of Mozart, Handel, and Bartók to his innovative excursions into the music of Eastern Europe and the Caribbean. Praised by the Los Angeles Times for his “dizzying execution” and “exceeding vitality and warmth,” Mr. Kanengiser has performed in recital and as guest soloist with orchestras in virtually every major American city, ranging from New York City’s Carnegie Hall to San Francisco’s Herbst Theater, as well as throughout Canada, Europe, and Asia.

Through unusual commissions and a creative approach to transcription, Mr. Kanengiser has won recognition for expanding the repertory beyond the staples of guitar literature. He has performed and recorded works written for him by composers as diverse as Dusan Bogdanovich, Ian Krouse, and Brian Head, and has won consistent praise for his own transcriptions of scores from the traditional repertory, most notably Mozart’s Piano Sonata in A major (featuring the “Rondo Alla Turka”), which he prepared for the Columbia Pictures release, Crossroads, in which he was Ralph Macchio’s guitar double and coach. Many of these arrangements have been published by GSP, Gendai Guitar, and Doberman Editions.

Mr. Kanengiser’s solo recordings are heard exclusively on the GSP label. His first recording, Ronda Alla Turka, won an “INDIE” award for Best Classical Recording. His second solo CD, Echoes from the Old World, features music of the folk traditions of Eastern Europe and the Middle East. The third, Caribbean Souvenirs, comprises music from the Caribbean and Mexico. His most recent recording is Classical Cool, a 2003 GSP release, includes jazz-inspired compositions and arrangements for classical guitar. A fifth CD, Groovetune, featuring Mr. Kanengiser’s interpretations of music from fingerstyle masters including Ralph Towner, Pat Metheny, Ozzie Kotani, Michael Hedges, and others, will be released in 2007.

Mr. Kanengiser’s first live studio concert DVD, Classical Guitar and Beyond, was released in October 2006 by Mel Bay Publications; the album also includes his now-infamous comedy imitation show from the 2005 Guitar Foundation of America Festival. He has also produced two popular Hot Licks instructional videos, recently reissued on DVD, Effortless Classical Guitar and Classical Guitar Mastery. Elsewhere in the media, Mr. Kanengiser for two years hosted his own weekly radio show on KKGO-FM in Los Angeles.

As a founding member of the Los Angeles Guitar Quartet, William Kanengiser tours extensively throughout North America, Asia, and Europe, and has recorded for the GHA, Delos, and Sony Classical labels. LAGQ currently records exclusively for Telarc. Their 2001 Telarc release, LAGQ: Latin, was nominated for a Grammy, and their follow-up recording LAGQ’s Guitar
Heroes won a Grammy for Best Classical Crossover Album of 2004. The latest release, Spin, features an original composition by Mr. Kanengiser for four guitars, “Turn to the Sea.” LAGQ recently released a live concert DVD for Mel Bay Publications, LAGQ LIVE!, and will record a CD of Brazilian music with jazz singer Luciana Souza in 2007.

Beyond his work with LAGQ, Mr. Kanengiser has performed chamber music at festivals and concerts with a wide range of noted artists and ensembles, including the Miami String Quartet, the Vermeer Quartet, flutist Marina Piccinini, pianist Mia Chung, violinist Maria Bachmann, and recorder artist Aldo Abreu.

Mr. Kanengiser won First Prize of the 1987 Concert Artists Guild Competition as well as major international competitions in Toronto (1981) and Paris (1983). The recipient of two Solo Recitalist Fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts, he was also chosen as one of Musical America’s Outstanding Young Artists. A member of the guitar faculty at the USC Thornton School of Music in Los Angeles since 1983, he has given master classes at conservatories and guitar festivals around the world. Born in Orange, New Jersey, Mr. Kanengiser studied at the University of Southern California, being named Outstanding Graduate of the School of Music upon the completion of both his Bachelor’s and Master’s degrees. His principal teachers were Malcolm Hamilton, Pepe Romero, and James F. Smith.

Today RAPHAËLLA SMITS is world renowned as a talent of extraordinary dimension for her most sensitive and inspired musicality. She is called quite rightly ‘une Grande Musicienne’ and ‘one of the most delicate and most cultivated performers of our time’ (Jean Bernard, Diapason, FR).

Raphaëlla Smits plays worldwide in her unique way on eight-string guitars. More recently she has also developed a passion for early instruments to achieve authenticity. Recognized as ‘an uncommonly musical guitarist’ (Tim Page, New York Times), she always commits to the soul, the essence of music.

Her solo recitals as well as her performances with the most distinguished colleagues always meet enthusiastic audiences and press. Concert-goers everywhere are in awe of Raphaëlla’s captivating stage presence.

Besides stage-work Raphaëlla Smits has made 14 successful albums, many of them being listed as indispensable to refined music lovers. Besides she participated in the recording of 9 anthology albums.

Raphaëlla Smits is internationally praised as a teacher for both guitar and chamber music. In addition to her chair at the prestigious Lemmens Institute in Belgium, she regularly gives master-classes in West and East Europe, in North and South America and in Japan.

FRANK VIGNOLA
WORKSHOP, “PLAY IN THE STYLE OF DJANGO”
FRIDAY, MARCH 30
4 PM • FINE ARTS CENTER
CONCERT, 8 PM • HILLWOOD RECITAL HALL

An extremely versatile jazz guitarist, Frank Vignola has demonstrated that he is capable of playing everything from fusion and commercial pop-jazz to hard bop, post-bop, and swing. The native New Yorker has a wide variety of influences; everyone from Wes Montgomery, Joe Pass, and Pat Metheny to Django Reinhardt and Charlie Christian has affected his playing in some way. For Vignola, different influences have asserted themselves at different times – the Reinhardt or Christian influence might be especially prominent in a swing environment, whereas he has sometimes sounded more Metheny-ish in fusion or pop-jazz/NAC settings. And he might be mindful of Montgomery or Pass on a hard bop or post-bop project. Born on suburban Long Island on December 30, 1965, Vignola was raised in the New York area. The Italian-American started playing the guitar at the age of five and grew up admiring a variety of guitarists. Far from a jazz snob, Vignola never listened to jazz exclusively and was also a major fan of rock, R&B, and pop. The guitarists that he admired ranged from jazz musicians to rock icons like Eric Clapton and Eddie Van Halen. As a young adult, Vignola studied at the Cultural Arts Center of Long Island and went on to enjoy a lot of sideman gigs in the 1980s. The New Yorker was 27 when, in 1993, he signed with Concord Jazz and recorded his first Concord session as a leader, Appel Direct. Several more Concord releases followed in the 1990s, and the early 2000s found Vignola recording for Nagel-Heyer as well as Acoustic Disc. Alex Henderson, All Music Guide

PROGRAM NOTES ON MOVING MEDITATION FOR SOLO GUITAR.

Moving Meditation gets its title from the source that inspired this piece, a Qigong routine that comprises a sequence of some 30 postures. Qigong is an ancient and widely practiced form of Chinese yoga done in a standing position. Each posture or pose is held for some duration of time with the intention of slowing the breath, calming the mind, and balancing the body. Depending on the pace that the practitioner sets, the routine can take anywhere from ten minutes to an hour. This musical setting is directly based on a particular Qigong sequence. For the most part the music closely follows the static, dance-like postures as they unfold, very relaxed at the beginning and gradually becoming more active at other times, although the activity in the yoga practice is not one of visible motion but rather feelings of internal tension. Tonally the work is deliberately rooted in place in D, not going anywhere, not even leaving its diatonic scale save for slight excursions analogous to those inevitable wanderings of the mind and moments of internal struggle to regain composure and balance. In other words, Moving Meditation is not a narrative work but rather more like the music to an abstract dance of quiet poses.

PASQUALE BIANCULLI has been heard in concert across the U.S., Canada, Europe and the Caribbean. In 1983, he made his New York solo debut at Weill Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall. Tim Page, of the New York Times, describing the performance said, “...a sensitive musician... he juxtaposed workmanlike playing with passages of real inspiration”. DODECAPHONICA – THROWING THE DICE

Inspired by a recent journey into Eastern music, Dodecaphonica takes its harmonic influence from this part of the world. The title, meaning 12 tones, is the inspiration behind the structure of the composition: 12 strings; 12 note modes with corresponding chords of 12 notes divided into groups of three; and two dice totalling 12 sides. The modes alter on descending, rather like the Indian Rag.

To counteract the rigidity of this system, the two dice were thrown randomly and their numbers noted. (My husband and I took turns to throw the dice and even the cat bumped one!) The pairs of numbers in each throw corresponded with particular modes and chords, affected also by odds and evens, and the results dictated the material I used for each section. These combinations were not always the easiest to work with but they were nonetheless a challenge that I wanted to meet.

The idea of a stalemate is expressed in one section towards the end by the repetition of certain chords, again in specific numbers, followed by a slightly more harmonious conclusion.

Hayley Savage

ENGLISH FANTASIA FOR GUITAR AND STRING ORCHESTRA

Starting life as a small guitar solo, it was at the behest of John Mills, professor of guitar at the Royal Academy of Music and a solo guitarist of international renown, that Hayley Savage's English Fantasia developed into the substantial addition to the repertoire for guitar and string orchestra that it has become. Since his first performance of the work with the Sarum Chamber Orchestra in 1997, John Mills has performed it as far afield as Finland and Canada, where it was broadcast by CBC. He writes:

The Fantasia follows in the tradition of British Romantic composition and is a beautifully rich work, which successfully combines guitar and strings and shows the influence not only of English Folk music but also of the very special atmosphere of the English countryside.

The music dawns slowly over a pedal note that becomes a chord while the guitar sings a phrase, whose modality is as ancient as the Salve Regina plainsong it embroiders, then muses on whether the pitch of some notes should be raised or lowered. Harmonies built from added 5ths combine with free-flowing melodic lines thickened in 4ths; and the Aeolian and Dorian modes are much evident. Though there are occasionally more astringent passages, there is more that is essentially diatonic. Rather than adhere to a formal timetable and its demands, the music is introspective and rhapsodic in essence – witness the several guitar solo passages – and continually flexing in a contrapuntal web of great textural metamorphosis.

The Seoul Symphony of New York at Lincoln Center, the C.W. Post Orchestra at Tilles Center and contemporary music at both Manhattan School of Music and at Brooklyn Conservatory of Music. In Korea she was a guest conductor at the New International Music Festival at Sejong Center for the Performing Arts in Seoul, the Pusan Festival Orchestra and the Masan City Symphony Orchestra. This spring, she will be conducting the Long Island Youth Orchestra at Carnegie Hall and guest conducting the Youth Chamber Orchestra of Bergen (Norway) on their concert tour to New York City in April 2007. She is currently in her seventh year as Music Director and Conductor of the University Orchestra at Stony Brook University and will conduct the University Orchestra in a series of orchestral concerts at Staller Center during the 2006-2007 season. In addition, she is currently the Music Director and Conductor of the North Shore Symphony Orchestra, Principal Guest Conductor of Long Island Youth Orchestra, and on the faculty of Manhattan School of Music’s Precollege Division.

For the past 12 years she has assisted Tilles Center in coordinating numerous educational residencies with the New York Philharmonic, and visiting artists such as Yo-Yo Ma and the Shanghai Quartet. As the conductor of the C.W. Post Orchestra for 25 years, she developed the orchestra from an ensemble of 11 to a full sized symphonic orchestra of over 70 undergraduate and graduate students. She created an orchestral program that included a concert series at Tilles Center, an annual concerto competition, a series of orchestral master classes, orchestral performance courses for music educators and educational residency programs with both the New York Philharmonic and Tilles Center. As a flutist and avid chamber musician, Susan Deaver has performed extensively and has been praised by critics for her “superb playing” and “atmospheric virtuosity”. On numerous occasions she performed as a flute soloist at the Kennedy Center with the Washington Chamber Symphony of which she was Principal Flutist from 1981 to 2002. Her doctoral thesis, entitled “The Group for Contemporary Music, 1962-1992,” dealt with both the historical and performance aspect of one of America’s foremost contemporary music ensembles.
Jorge Morel made his debut at Carnegie Hall in New York City in 1961 followed by appearances at Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall in New York, Queen Elizabeth Hall and Wigmore Hall in London, National Hall in Dublin and Suntory Hall in Tokyo. His performances have been enthusiastically received in many countries including Argentina, Brazil, Canada, Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, Puerto Rico, France, Holland, Italy, Norway, Poland, Scotland, Spain, Sweden, Finland, Greece, Singapore, Germany and more.

Morel's musical career began in his native country or Argentina and his father taught him the rudiments of classical guitar at age seven. He went on to study advanced guitar at the internationally recognized Academy of Professor Pablo Escobar in Buenos Aires and after graduating joined Mr Escobar in radio and concert performances. Morel left Argentina to perform in Ecuador, Colombia and Cuba, where he recorded his first solo LP and was featured in a weekly TV show. Vladimir Bobri, then President of the Classical Guitar Society in New York, lent his recognition and support to Morel after hearing him perform in Puerto Rico. This led to concert engagements in California and Hawaii and Morel's eventual debut at Carnegie Hall. At this time, he recorded his second LP for Decca Records and subsequently recorded three more albums.

After moving to New York City, Morel performed nightly at the jazz lover's haven, The Village Gate, owned by Art D'Lugoff who became his manager for a period of three years. During his performances at the Village Gate, he shared the bill with jazz legends such as Errol Garner, Stan Kenton, Herbie Mann and many others of great popularity. Around this time, Morel met Chet Atkins and established what was to become a lifelong friendship. Chet demonstrated his admiration for Jorge in a very tangible way when he helped to arrange for the recording of another album with RCA Victor. Mr. Morel was represented by Columbia Artists Management for a total of 7 years throughout the 1970's and toured all of North America and Canada performing approximately 70 concerts a year.

Morel continued to solidify his reputation as an outstanding artist and composer with the premier of Suite Del Sur, a concerto for guitar and orchestra, which he performed as soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic under the direction of Zubin Mehta. He continued his study of composition for a number of years with the late Rudy Schramm, respected teacher, author, conductor and arranger.

Jorge is also recognized for his commitment to the development and exposure of new talent, making his knowledge and experience accessible to serious students of guitar through master classes and private instruction.

Acting in the role of mentor, he has offered several former students the opportunity to join him in live performance, lending his name and support to help launch a gifted young professional's career.
